

STOCK TRANSFER OVERALL BETWEEN PLANT OR WAREHOUSE

WHAT IS STOCK TRANSFER AND WHY REQUIRED STOCK TRANSFER?

Stock transfer is the most important action for a corporate with multi warehouse or multi branch outlet. For optimum operation, space constrain and stock delivery reason, we may need to transfer stock from one plant to another plant or from receiving warehouse to selling warehouse/outlet. Stock transfer process normally take time for the transportation, picking and packing, as well as receiving back to received store. Without a seamless transferring process, the transferring process will be the highest cost activity to the whole inventory process.

Sharing of information between branches and warehouse, concurrent accessing same physical stock quantity by various staff in the company on the same particular stock give the life for the organization today. Few customers concurrently wanted the same limited stock give the business owner the most challenging task to relocate the correct quantity to the correct branch outlet within the coverage area. Customer satisfaction it the most concern for every business owner, and this satisfaction is come from the efficiency of stock delivery to the confirm purchase customer.

In business environment, cash and carry, TT in advance is the most preferred business model for most of the business owner. The time factor on delivery come in critical once the TT in advance mode specify the delivery lead time. Store and warehouse manager need to make sure the goods deliver to customer within the specific time and send out from the nearest warehouse location is the most cost effective solution for this process.
